

Section of photoresistors in transparent globe. Photoresistors placed at different angles to measure what angles are receiving the most light. Data taken here will help determine what angle to place the louvers.